Athens, Florence, London, Paris, Moscow New York Basis for Pilot Course

Mr. Peter Lyon, who has returned to the high school following a year's leave of absence spent at "Carnegie Tech on an NDEA Fellowship for Experienced Teachers of Social Science, described the new Humanities pilot course to the Carmel School Board last night.

The course is built around the six great cities in our Western culture: the Golden Age of Athens, the Renaissance period of Florence, London in the time of Shakespeare, Paris during the period of the Revolution, Moscow during its Revolutionary period 1905-18, and contemporary New York.

The pilot course for able Freshmen and Seniors will be a creative experience for students in which teachers of art, English, history and music will be associates in learning. Students will make music as well as listen to it. There will be field trips to San Francisco, to Salinas to the Monterey County Symphony, as well as locally, he said.

Mr. Lyon described the Carnegie Institute curriculum and other material available on microfilm. "The teacher will become a creative manipulator of material," not all contained in a book, Mr. Lyon suggested.

Mr. Lyon stated the three main objectives of this way of teaching as: knowledge, attitudes and values, student attitudes toward education, scholarly skills of inquiry, changes in the student's own thinking toward furthering his own education.

A comparison of the two great economic marketing systems based on "demand" in the U. S. and on "command" in the Soviet Union, would take place during the second semester, he said.

The course will replace World Literature and Civics, but will cover enough of the same territory to satisfy college entrance requirements, and will require double class periods. Dr. R. E. Newton expressed satisfaction with the aims of the course, but was worried that some students with time for only one period of elective might possibly be denied a choice in this field.

Use Permits Agreed Upon

It looks as if the so-called "illegal" motels in Carmel will finally know where they stand.

At the Planning Commission meeting yesterday afternoon it was made public that the City Council accepted the method of issuing "use" permits in lieu of the original idea of rezoning the areas in which the motels operate. A special committee, composed of Dorothea Roberts and John Riling, studied and made certain word changes in the proposed ordinance. They asked the Commissioners to read the revised ordinance and make any changes they felt necessary before meeting with the City Council again.

Other matters discussed included a new sign and outside alteration of Fortier's Drug Store on the corner of Ocean and Dolores. Derek Rayne gained approval to "face lift" the front of his newly acquired store, the old Country Shop.

The Commission took another month to study the revision of Part 10 of Planning and Zoning Code of the city. City Clerk Hugh Bayless said that no one to date has come by to examine the code.

Final Rehearsals For "Oliver"

Final preparations are being made at the Forest Theater for the forthcoming musical drama "Oliver" which opens Friday, September 1, running the remainder of the weekend and the following Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights.

The musical is based on the famous Charles Dickens novel "Oliver Twist," and is being directed by Sunset Center Manager Cole Weston. Weston, a veteran director, produced last year John Steinbeck's "Pete from Park" at Sunset auditorium.

Leading roles in "Oliver" will be played by Dick Vreeland as Fagin; Paul Hazdovac as Bill Sikes; Maggie Weston as Nancy; Edgar Pye

Three Actors at Studio Set Performance Record

When "A Funny Thing Happened On The Way To The Forum" closes its summer run at the Studio Theatre-Restaurant on Sunday night, three of its actors will be celebrating their fiftieth performance. Dianna Lockwood, Milton Hayes and Ed Shinbrot were also in the cast of last winter's production of the musical comedy. The first two have appeared throughout in their parts as Gymnasia and Hysterium, while Shinbrot originally played Lycus and now has the lead role of Pseudolus.

The Studio believes that fifty performances sets a record for a Peninsula theatrical production, even though it falls somewhat short of the 966 times "A Funny Thing" ran on Broadway. However, when the final curtain descends on Sunday, it's a safe bet that the three veterans of the entire run at the Studio will be relieved not to face another 900 performances.

Students Surf in Mexico

Mej Grimes, Robert Kvenilli, John O'Neil and Brad Stewart, seniors from Carmel High School, are enjoying a surfers paradise holiday in Mazatlan, Sinoloa, Mexico.

The boys report the air temperature as 100 degrees and the water as 85 degrees. They start surfing at 6:00 a.m. but have to quit by 5:00 p.m. because of the mosquitos. Sometimes they find a crest they can ride for a mile.

$100,000 Painting

Perhaps you have noticed the elderly Oriental gentleman around town who with his native dress and long beard looks like an ancient mandarin. He is Professor Chang Dai-Chien whose exhibit of contemporary Oriental paintings opened at Laky Galleries with a cocktail party last Saturday. One of them, an enormous wall painting is priced at $100,000, but others are considerably less.

Professor Chang's work evokes memories of traditional Oriental enchantment with mesmerizing effect. His colors, dark blue greens, which he mixes himself from Chinese ink, water and mineral colors, transport us into the realm of the future. His paintings have been shown in all the great cities of Europe, South America where he has made his home for 14 years, India, Thailand, China and New York.

SOMETHING FLICKERED IN HIS EYES . . .

by Dorothy Johnson

This is the story of Herbert Heron, who first came to Carmel in 1908, when there were less than three hundred people here. He looked at the smooth blue sky. The muddy dirt roads. The crooked cypress, the oaks and tall pines. And he heard the voice of freedom ring from the shops of the butcher, the baker, and the candlestick maker—

Everybody was happy. Everybody knew each other by their first names.

Everybody was in Carmel for no other reason than that is where they wanted to be.

Everybody was doing whatever it was they wanted to do, and they seemed to care not a whit what opinion a stranger may gain of them.

Herbert Heron's heart went tight inside him—something flickered in his eyes . . . A professional actor, he had stopped off to say "hello" to his friends, George Sterling and Charles Warren Stoddard, both famous writers and first settlers in Carmel. Although he had just bought a ranch in the San Fernando Valley, it was sold without his ever going back to see it. "I shall spend the rest of my life in Carmel," he said.

It has always seemed to me that there is something big to be felt by a man who can make up his mind to leave the things he knows, and to seek himself in strange places.

In this little settlement, which was not incorporated until 1916, there were no politics, no automobiles, and no mechanical appliances.

"Even the telephone was on a five-party line," Mr. Heron recalled, "and there were few at that." The Pine Inn shared theirs with those who were without, and it was from this hotel that a daily two-horse drawn bus plowed its way, "sometimes with the assistance of the passengers," along the three miles or so to Monterey.

There was also a livery stable where one could hire a horse and buggy for about a dollar and a half per day; but most Carmelites preferred to walk by way of Pebble Beach to shop at Holman's in Pacific Grove. "It was a good day's work, took maybe seven or eight hours, to do a little shopping," he said, "but it was fine exercise and we all enjoyed it."

These early settlers had a new kind of security—stable and enduring—the kind of security that springs from the soul of its people. There was time to talk and work and play. There was time to sense and smell and feel the wondrous nature of Carmel; its tremendous vitality making other places appear pale and anemic in comparison.

In the late afternoon, as though at a given signal, they would stop whatever it was that they were doing, and walk through the village and down the slopes that led to the sea. There, they gathered together to marvel at the brilliance of a setting sun that turned the sky into a magnificent aura of purple and yellow and rose. Wind whispered through the trees. And their words were strong, and real, and true. There was so much beauty that sometimes they could not bear to look.

When darkness came, coal oil lamps sprang to life in the simple little cottages that sat unobtrusively in their woodsy 80 acre tract bound by rocks and mountains and sea. Driftwood logs burned cheerfully in fireplaces built of native stone that warmed the cockles of their hearts.

Smells of a country kitchen blended into fresh clean air through open doors that had never felt the turn of a key. Sometimes they would dance and sing at The Arts and Crafts Club, where local artists displayed their exhibits. Always one could hear the pounding of abalone and the sounds of laughter from picnickers at the beach.

For two years after his arrival in Carmel, Mr. Heron directed his efforts toward the founding of Carmel's beautiful Forest Theater. In 1910 his work bore fruit, and on opening night, he played the central role of "David" in a biblical story of the same name by Constance Lindsay Skinner. Helen Cooke, wife of Carmelite Harry Leon Wilson, author of "Ruggles of Redgap," played the role of Michel. Sol's daughter, Ferdinand Burdoff, a painter, arranged the scenery for this original production.

"As a matter of fact," Mr. Heron said, "if you were in Carmel, you either took part in the show, or saw it—everybody was there!" The talent was all local, except for a few summer visitors, who "oh-ed and ah-ed," and suddenly found themselves participating, too.

Other premieres in this natural outdoor theatre among the pines included: "Fire," by Mary Austin; "The First Poet," by Jack London; "Sons of Spain," by Sidney Howard; and "Yolando of Cyprus," by Cale Young Rice. The world premiere, "Tower Beyond Tragedy," by the late poet, Robinson Jeffers, with Judith Andersen, a Broadway star, playing the lead in 1941, was perhaps a dual triumph. In a sense, it was a comeback for Jeffers; and it certainly gained recognition, international in scope, for The Forest Theater.

In recent seasons, the theatre has been the scene of many activities ranging from chamber music to tunes from the Scottish bag-pipers, and on to plays for children, such as the often repeated "Mr. Bunt," which was written in Carmel by Ira Remson.

Playing the role of "Bottom," principal comic in Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream," Mr. Heron told me, "I killed myself in the last scene—" He fell on his back; the air was warm and clear, and a wide circle of pines surrounded him. "I looked up at the stars," he continued, "and their brightness magnified the sense of largeness I felt. Somehow their sparkle seemed to keep in time to the beating pulse of Carmel. 'A Midsummer Night's Dream' is, I believe, peculiarly suited to our theatre—and I've done it five times . . ."

In the Court of the Seven Arts, sitting behind an old desk that dominates the upstairs of his bookshop, "Bert" spoke of his fondness for music. "I've had two season tickets to the Bach Festival since its foundation," he declared, "and I'm also extremely interested in the Carmel Music Society."

Immaculately dressed in a tailored pin-striped suit, Herbert Heron looked every inch the poet, actor, director, business man, and one-time mayor of Carmel. Tossing a matched beret from his head, he was adamant that "it has no significance." "I'm getting bald," he laughed, "and this keeps me warm — and the wind off my head!"

again! The wind brings them in, birds and animals transport them, they even arrive in "weed free" steer manure.

Among the most tenacious is the mallow (malva) which, as children, we knew as "cheese weed" from the tasty, disc-shaped fruits. Mallow belongs to the same genus as the hollyhock and cotton. You'll see the young plants growing well now and, if allowed to live, they will attain a remarkable size during the winter and will reproduce by many seeds next year. It's not generally a lawn pest, but will creep for as much as two feet in all directions if the terminal stem is cut off. In time the seeds will ripen and you're in for a battle. A lawn weed spray, containing the ingredient Banvel D, is the approved control. Occasional cultivation will eradicate great numbers of mallow seedlings as the first heart-shaped leaves are noticed. The older plants have roundish leaves, much like those of a hollyhock—smaller of course. If you're up to yanking out the mature mallow you'll find it quite a feat of strength. You'll swear there's someone pulling back from down under.

Purslane is another difficult problem weed. This is also a prostrate plant, easily identified by its fleshy, succulent leaves and reddish stems. Once you uproot it your troubles are not over unless you keep it from coming in contact with the soil. This is actually a beautiful plant and a first cousin to Portulaca. Some folks call it "pussley" and use the young tips as pot herbs. Which reminds us that nasturtium leaves and stems can be chopped into salads as a substitute for water cress. And the seeds can be pickled.

We have enough space left for a question from Monterey: "Someone told us about a maiden-hair tree. Will it do well here?" Ginkgo biloba is an attractive, hardy tree that represents one of the oldest plants on Earth. A good lawn specimen or street tree. Leaves turn yellow at first frost and fall off. Mostly free from pests. Requires little care. You'll like it. We'll devote next week to your watering problems.

Artist's rendering of the new Roos/Atkins store in the open-mall Del Monte Center. The shop will formally open Thursday, August 31, according to a statement by Edward H. Gauer, Roos/Atkins board chairman. White-painted adobe brick and natural wormy chestnut will be used freely throughout the interior, accented by patina-finished black wrought iron work and turned wood spindles. There will be three entrances to the store—one from the mall on the north side, and two others from parking lots on the east and south sides. The men's and boy's section will be carpeted in bright red — while a deep gold carpeting will be used in the women's and girls' area. Soft gold colors and flocked wall paper will decorate the feminine shopping section; adobe and wormy chestnut will be the main accents for the men.

The Pine Cone Family Is Growing

MY MOST INTERESTING TRIP

by Anthony Hough

My wife suggested we go see our friends in Mannheim, Germany. We were living in Nottingham, England at the time, so this meant a journey down to Dover, then by ferry boat across the English Channel to Ostend in Belgium, and then on across Belgium to Germany.

Apart from being the most interesting trip it was also the most trying I have ever experienced. We set off late one afternoon and travelled down to Dover without much incident, then drove our small car onto the ferry boat. We left at midnight on rather a choppy sea, the journey was due to take three and threequarter hours, but I think the Captain was anxious to get back to his bed. He had the boat absolutely flat out and made it in three. If you have ever travelled on a Channel ferry boat you will know that to get a cabin you've to book the year before, so you just have to sit on the seats provided and try and sleep, or you could wander around the deck. I spent my whole three hours supporting my wife who was violently sea sick. Three hours were spent looking down into the black waters and trying to stop my wife from falling over the rails every time she retched.

At three forty-five I drove my car off the boat on to Belgium soil. Can you imagine what it is like to change suddenly from driving on the left hand side of the road to the right hand side? Luckily at four o'clock in the morning there is little traffic, and I noticed there wasn't a Belgian to be seen. I suppose they must have disappeared when they knew an English boat was due. Anyway after a little wandering from side to side of the road I shakily reached the freeway which takes you to Brussels. This was 77 miles of agony. The road was in a shocking state, with most of the road surface full of holes and in very bad need of repair. My wife, by this time was feeling pretty grim and was trying to sleep. But it was impossible. We made it to Brussels, and stopped at the side of the road to make some tea. By this time it was just dawn, and while my wife took a walk along the road I proceeded to have a shave using my outside driving mirror, much to the amusement of passing Belgians, who no doubt thought "there is another of those mad Englishmen making tea and shaving at five o'clock in the morning."

After this we drove on, through to Aachen and into Germany, passing through the customs. We then made very good time across Germany to Mannheim, arriving at our destination 24 hours after starting. Our American friends made us very welcome and noted with surprise, the absence of our two children. I for one was very pleased they didn't have to make that journey, and was very thankful to have a dear old Mother-in-Law.

The next day we went to visit Heidelberg and its old castle. Such a lovely place with the pleasant River Neckar running nearby. There is something nice being among a crowd of tourists speaking entirely a different language and going to a restaurant and sampling German food, drinking their beer and thinking here was a people who only a couple of decades ago were fighting us to the death.

Our friends had a surprise for us. They decided to take us up to Bavaria for 3 days, and without delay, we took off in their huge American car. I for one was very pleased to be riding in the back, driving on those German Autobahns, one has to be very alert to the very fast German driver who thinks nothing of driving his Mercedes along at over a 100 miles per hour. The countryside of Bavaria is one of the nicest things to see; the rolling green hills, small villages, with very pretty chapels, the chalets with their window boxes of geraniums. We stayed near Garmish at a hotel requisitioned by the American forces in Germany. It is on the side of a beautiful lake called the Eibsee at the foot of Germany's highest mountain, the Zugspitz, the same mountain where tragedy struck last year when an avalanche swept several people off the sundeck of a hotel and buried them alive.

We settled in at the hotel and promptly went for a swim in the lake which was roped off for Americans only, and with its own special lifeguard. In the morning I went off for a boat ride with our friend's children. After hitting one or two other boats and having a yacht steer violently out of my way, I managed to steer the thing out across the lake, and continued to row for about a mile or two. We packed our things and started our drive back to Mannheim. We stopped here and there to take photographs of cows with bells around their necks.

Unfortunately all good things come to an end, and our time soon came to go back. We had spent a very short but interesting time meeting different people and seeing some fabulous sights. I had developed a very bad cough which seemed to come from some chemicals floating in the air from a nearby factory, and found it most embarrassing when trying to talk to someone. We made our way back the same route across Germany and Belgium, making far better time doing the whole journey from Mannheim to Ostend in 7½ hours. On the way we called in at Bonn to get gas and eat, returning to the freeway without incident. Things also went smoothly on the boat to England and was the opposite of our trip across before, with sea very calm and a lovely sunny day. It was just getting dark when we arrived at Dover and this meant

"My sister Amy was setting on our driveway. When the car was coming my dad told her to go in the house. The minute she was in the house the car hit the house. I was watching T.V. when I heard a crash I ran out to see what happened I saw a car on our walkway. What the car was making the curve the man was unconscious. After the car hit our house the man regained conscience."

—by Milton Lawitzke, Pine Cone carrier, and 9-year old River School student.

many more hours of night driving, and I am ashamed to say that I got lost twice on my way home and didn't arrive home until four in the morning.

New Look at Carmel High School

Arthur J. Gumbrell, new principal at Carmel High School, is planning a new look for the curriculum as well as the classrooms and grounds next month. His philosophy of education is based on involving the student creatively instead of expecting him to sit passively and soak up knowledge. He stands beside an abstract painting done by a student in a class in Logic which he conducted while he was curriculum coordinator and superintendent of the San Dieguito High School District for seven years.

His first project will be the creation of a teaching team in the Humanities which will use Peter Lyon as chairman. This will combine English, History, Art, and Music for the ninth and twelfth grade students. Outside community resources will be used and many different audio-visual media will be used.

New music teacher at the high school will be Mr. Henry Avila who will conduct a class in music appreciation as well as glee club, choir, and band. Opportunity for a string group will be given. A new class in ceramics will be taught by Mr. Lloyd Baskerville.

Arthur Gumbrell, new high school principal.

Mr. Gumbrell has taught an in-service course in Linguistics for teachers in his district and served as consultant to other districts in matters pertaining to English studies and communications generally. He has developed commercially a sound slide program, "Come Invent a Language," to be used on a Videosonic programmer.

He introduced team teaching in Comparative Government, Logic and Psychology. Mr. Gumbrell was responsible for the introduction of simulations and games such as Career games, W'ff and Proof, a logic game, Inter-Nation Simulation games into his school curriculum.

Bulldozing area above swimming pool to be blacktopped for volley ball.

In response to a question concerning the need for discipline put to him by Pine Cone publisher Allman Cook, Mr. Gumbrell referred to his six years as Commandant and Dean of Cadets at Morgan Park Academy in Chicago. Mr. Gumbrell knows what it is to need a job, having worked his way through college during the Depression years. He was founding director of the San Diego Economic Opportunities Commission.

Faulty Vision

A study reported in the Journal of the American Optometric Association several years ago shows 72% of the Juvenile Delinquents in a Tennessee County Detention home failed one or more vision tests administered with the help of the University of Chattanooga.

Teachers Meet at La Playa

The California Curriculum Commission, of which Nancy Lofton is the only elementary teacher member, met at the La Playa Hotel last week for three days, to discuss the adoption of reading and literature books. It made plans for evaluation of math textbooks next year, based on the statewide evaluation of math programs, going on this year.

One of the most difficult duties of parents is to refuse to give children what they ask when it will not be good for them. Parents who, against their better judgment, give in to whining and pleadings for the sake of peace are in reality loving themselves, not their children.

Self Control

A quality necessary for a good parent is self-control. Parents who give free rein to their emotions, who scream and yell at their offspring who threaten exaggerated punishments, almost always have unruly children. The excessive emotion of the parent rubs off on the boys and girls and shows itself in the form of restlessness, tantrums, stubborn refusals to eat and to obey. Parents who react emotionally rather than rationally to situations cause confusion in their children. The youngsters never know what to expect, since at one time a misdeed is ignored, and at another time it is punished beyond all reason. A confused and mixed-up parent certainly cannot put any order into a child's thinking and acting. Consequently, emotionally disturbed parents usually have emotionally disturbed children.

Team Teaching at Middle School

While Principal Orville Rogers is not new, having helped develop the Middle School concept, built three years ago, based on team teaching, he has modified the schedule to concentrate the 5th and 6th grades in two wings in order to keep better track of them and not have so much moving around.

He is "very enthusiastic about many new younger teachers with wonderful backgrounds who will make for better balance." Mrs. Lynne Fortune will teach science and journalism, Mrs. Sherina Friedlander will be a core teacher, Miss Sandra Giffin will teach Spanish, Mrs. Elaine Green, English and Miss Julie Issacson, French and English. Mrs. Marilyn Ito will teach reading, Mrs. Judy Lewis, remedial reading, Miss Haydon Parker, English, Mr. Jerome Schantz, science and Miss Barbara Sue Wheelock, Social Sciences.

Mr. Rogers feels fortunate to have the background and knowledge of George Moslof from the High School as chairman of the Physical Education Department, and that of Eleanor Crouch from the High School as the new Librarian.

Mrs. Dolores Dresser is returning as Speech and Drama teacher; Mr. Herb Reuter as Science teacher; and Mr. Kenneth Wiese returns from a sabbatical leave, as crafts teacher.

As Science department chairman, Mr. Al Kolb will replace Marvin Patterson who took a summer job in Palo Alto to work with a Science Research Company to work on innovations in teaching science, and was persuaded to stay.

"Individual Instruction" at Woods School

Mr. Edwin McCurry, new principal of both Carmel Woods School and Carmel School in the Valley, is no stranger to Carmel, having lived in this area for several years.

Main emphasis for the year will be to "increase our effectiveness in giving students individualized instruction. We'll be looking at the materials available to help us do this and will be developing our own materials."

Mr. McCurry worked with co-author Polly Scanlon of Carmel in piloting the Total Reading program developed in the Monterey School system. This system combines learning to read, write and spell on the part of primary children. One class at Woods School may use this method, but other methods will also be used, such as the Language Experience method developed by Van Allen.

Mr. McCurry has eight years of administrative experience at Fort Ord schools, as well as teaching experience in grades three through six. He will have assisting him a teaching vice-principal, Patrick Allen, from Carlsbad, California.

Hopefully, he will be able to add other TV sets to the one loaned by a parent, so that KQED educational programs in science and math may be utilized.

Edwin McCurry new principal at Woods School.

We talked about the book The Need for Discipline-Parents on the Run by Marguerite and Willard Beecher, published by Grosset and Dunlap in a new edition, which contains excellent directions for both parents and teacher.

As for the new roof, roofers had begun to install it the day we visited. Mr. McCurry pointed out the no-upkeep, copper covered columns, fascia, and beams in the original building, built from a design which received national recognition in Life magazine, 20 years ago. At that time supplementary, outdoor class rooms were and still are a rarity.

Sister Christopher New Principal at Junipero Serra

Sister Mary Christopher will be the Superior and new Principal of Junipero Serra School at the Mission which will reopen on September 5. Registration is set for August 28-29, from 9-11:30 a.m. and 1:30-3 p.m.

Sister Mary Christopher comes from the Notre Dame Elementary School in Belmont which serves as the demonstration school for the College of Notre Dame there. She has taught in San Jose and Des Moines, Washington schools.

Faculty for the coming school year will be Sister Dolores S.M., principal and teacher at the Mission four years ago, who will teach 8th grade; Sister Marie Angelica, 7th; Sister Mary Martin, 6th; Mrs. M. Donahoe, 5th; Sister Ann Catharine 4th; Mrs. S. Nicita, 3rd; Sister Mary Geraldyn 2nd; and Mrs. R. Wahl who will team teach with Sister Mary Christopher. Jack Giles will coach and handle physical education for the boys while Dorothy Powers will do the same for the girls. Class sizes fluctuate with goings and comings of the military from 35 or 40 to sometimes much larger.

Halcomb new Carmel River School Principal

Dr. James Halcomb, director of Elementary Education for the district, is the new principal of Carmel River School. He comes to us with advanced degrees in Administration, Curriculum and Instruction. He has eight years of experience as principal at La Mesa Spring Valley School District in San Diego County.

He has worked with Van Allen in the Language Experience program and has produced a 20" film for Creative Writing. He believes there are several effective methods of teaching reading and that teachers should not be limited to the use of any one method.

His major effort this fall will be to set up an in-service teacher workshop in science education. George Gustafson, new principal at Tularacitos School, Arthur Gumbrell at the High School, as well as Dr. Halcomb will emphasize the "discovery approach" geared to "making children independent learners."

struction, the new linguistic approach based on recent findings pioneered by Norm Chonski at M.I.T. and developed and included in an English series by Paul Roberts for grades 3-6.

Right now, Dr. Halcomb is devoting much of his time to making a "more livable environment for youngsters," now that tax money has come through to improve lighting and other maintenance deficiencies.

He hopes for continued parental support of the development of an "exemplary program" for our children.

Math Workshop Author

Mr. Robert Wirtz of Carmel, who wrote and compiled the material in Math Workshop for Children, used in Carmel Unified District, and other parts of the state, left last week for Montreal where he is attending a National Council of Teachers of Mathematics.

EMERGENCY NUMBERS IN FRONT PAGES OF YOUR TELEPHONE DIRECTORY

I hope it never happens to you, but in an emergency, would you know how to get help fast? In a crisis—whether you need the highway patrol, the police, the fire department, the doctor, or whomever—you can save important minutes when you dial emergency numbers direct.

In the front pages of the phone book you'll find spaces available to write in your own emergency numbers. May I suggest that you fill them in? Also, it's a good idea to make sure everyone in your family, including the children, knows how to use them.

When making an emergency call, please remember this: it is vital to give your location and phone number!

Two copies of the 1967 Monterey-San Benito Counties telephone directory travelled half way around the world to the troops at the USO in Seoul, Korea.

The Monterey Business Office sent the directory in response to a letter from the Club's director, stating the phone books give the GI a link with their home town and act as a great morale booster.

Planning an "evening out?" You'll relax and have a better time if you make sure that your baby-sitter knows where you can be reached by phone. Even if you're planning to be two or three places during the evening, it's a good idea to write down the names of the places, the phone numbers, and the approximate times you'll be there.

And, it's a good idea to point out to your sitter all emergency numbers, including the family doctor's, which you have written in the front of your phone book.

I'm sure you'll find that taking this precaution is a very easy habit to get into—and it's one way that your telephone can make a night out just that much more pleasant.

PARTY PLANS . . .
by Phyllis Jervey

"What's Cooking on the Beach"

Before school starts, head for Carmel's beaches and cook for fun. Sand, surf and sun (not discounting fog) call for plenty of good food prepared with ease. Be it a small posh picnic or a sturdy gypsy stew for surfers, here are some answers. Pre-arrange who is to bring what and organize the cooking and cleanup detail.

As our attractive picture shows, wax coated cups and plates play an important part for cold foods, beverages and snacks. But for hot meals, purchase plastic coated bowls unless you have those colorful enamel mugs for stews and chowders. Make the charcoal fire well ahead of chow time, so the cooking can be done over glowing coals. A portable grill or heavy wire broil-grid is fine. And now for the know-how.

Ring-A-Round Ham Burgers
Two cups finely chopped cooked ham; 2 stalks chopped celery; 3 tbsps., each, chopped parsley and onion; speck of cayenne pepper; 36 finely rolled Ritz crackers (about 1 1/2 cups); 1 slightly beaten egg; 2 tbsps. steak house flavor catsup; 1 (8 1/4-oz.) can pineapple slices, drained.

Combine first 4 ingredients. Add pepper to cracker crumbs. Toss with ham mixture. Combine egg and catsup and add thoroughly to mixture. Shape into four patties, packing firmly. Top each with a pineapple ring, pressing it slightly into patty. Grill over hot coals 7 minutes on each side, placing pineapple side down first. Prepare ham mixture at home. Makes 4 servings.

You could make these patties with ground round beef, mixing the meat with chopped canned mushrooms. Serve with cheese tidbits, a fruit punch and assorted finger foods. Homemade cookies and cheesy apples reuse enthusiasm from hungry beachcombers.

Ginger Fruit Punch
Combine 2 (12-oz.) cans apricot nectar, 2 cups orange juice and 1 cup grape juice. Put into 1 1/2-qt. thermos after chilling mixture well. Take a chilled 1-pint, 12-oz. ginger ale bottle to beach, keep in ice chest and mix as you serve. Makes 8 cups.

Cheesy Apples
Four medium-size apples; 1/2 cup grated cheddar cheese; 1/2 tsp. cinnamon; 2 tbsps. sugar.

Cut apples in quarters and remove seeds and core. Use heavy aluminum foil to make 4 packets. Put apple quarters

RING-A-ROUND "HAM" BURGERS: Honest to goodness "ham" burgers will be the highlight of your beach picnics. Made with cracker crumbs and topped with a ring of pineapple they will rouse enthusiastic comment. Serve with fruit punch and your favorite finger food, dessert also.

in center of each square and sprinkle with cheese, cinnamon and sugar. Seal packets tightly. Put on grill. Turn several times. Do this after cooking meat, and if fire is not too hot, the apples should be ready in 15 minutes. Eat with plastic fork from packet. Prepare before going to beach.

When everyone is chilled after swimming or riding the waves, a steaming pot of stew will hit the spot. Canned soups, opened at picnic site, and cooked on a grill or hung gypsy-style from tripod over campfire embers, requires a Dutch oven type of utensil with long handled spoon for stirring. Garlic-buttered Italian bread heated in foil wrap rates plenty of dunking into the stew's rich juices.

Gypsy Beach Chowder
Four cups shredded cabbage (prepared at home and brought in plastic bag); 1 can (10 1/4 oz.) condensed cream of potato soup; 1 can (10 3/4 oz.) condensed chicken vegetable and vegetable beef soup, each; 2 soup cans water. Be sure to bring large thermos of water. 1 can (3 oz.) sliced mushrooms, undrained; 1/4 cup dehydrated onions; 2 tbsps. butter; 2 cans (4 oz. each) Vienna sausage, cut in 1-inch slices; seasoned salt to taste; dehydrated parsley; grated Parmesan cheese.

Steam cabbage in 1/2 cup water in kettle until almost tender. Stir in soups with rest of water. Add mushrooms, onions, butter and sausage. Heat over low fire, stirring often. Add parsley. Serve in plastic coated soup bowls or enamel mugs with spoons. Pass shaker of Parmesan cheese and package of cyster crackers. Serves 8. To make a richer chowder, undiluted canned milk may be added. Season with Worcestershire, paprika and garlic powder if desired, or even Tabasco sauce, but take care!

Only in Carmel
Two boys about 10 years old were walking down Ocean Avenue. One was overheard saying to the other "This town is too little for all of these people."

ABOUT TOURISTS, VISITORS AND THE LOCALS

TOURISTS... Tourists are people in cameras, aloha shirts and/or muu-muus. They came to look at us out of a sense of duty, as a part of seeing America first, and see us primarily as quaint pages in their scrapbooks or as frames on their movie screens. They prefer neon lights, sidewalks, and street addresses. They talk about returning on future vacations, but you wouldn't want to live in that kooky town! They can't find our office.

VISITORS... Visitors are non-residents who come to see us frequently because they have a continuing love affair with our village and our ocean. They actually walk on our beaches, buy things in our shops, and only the sheer impracticality of uprooting themselves from their present business elsewhere prevents them from becoming locals. They always stop to see us when they are here.

LOCALS... Locals are people who, through the kind permission of the Gods, live in Carmel permanently. They walk on the beaches when the tourists are gone and the sun isn't. They shop when the shops aren't crowded, and they know where to find a parking place. They have lived all over the world and have chosen Carmel for their permanent way of life. They use their library cards, play instruments, paint pictures or make things, or appreciate those who do. They have all the virtues — are kind, good, sweet and pure. If your dog gets lost, you hope he is found by a local.

LIKE TO BECOME A LOCAL? We'd be happy to interview you and, if you qualify, would consider it a privilege to help you find a home or business here. Finding our office is the first test.

SAFE CUL-DE-SAC-LOCATION: Designed for a young family, this home is ideal for modern living... three bedrooms, two baths, FAMILY ROOM, living room with sliding glass doors to the patio, kitchen which provides dishwasher, Dishmaster, disposal, refrigerator and built-in cooking units... all this for $33,500 (MLS 2295).

PRICE REDUCTION: Now priced at $39,500, this nearly new story-book home represents top market value... picturesque Carmel setting among native trees and shrubs with a location that is walking distance to the Village and Cultural Center plus a completely charming residence. Wood-paneled living room with open, rustic ceiling; two bedrooms, two baths, a kitchen with matching appliances, a drive-under garage with space for a hobbyroom, and a patio-deck accessible from the dining area. Wall-to-wall carpeting and inside shutters add to the attractive interior.

LOOKING FOR A VIEW? Situated at the end of a lane in Del Monte Forest on a slope which prohibits view obstruction, this home features the owner-designer's desire for adequate storage closets of every description far in excess of the normal two-bedroom, small studio requirements. While the home is ideal for a couple, the basement was designed for expansion to accommodate a large family. Priced at $59,500, this is MLS 2331.

IDEAL CARMEL HOME FOR A RETIRED COUPLE: Planned for living comfort with a minimum of maintenance, this cheerful home has a delightful eastern exposure. This spacious living room, two-bedroom, two-bath home reflects the care the one owner has devoted to keeping the home in top-notch condition. It is very realistically priced at $39,500. (If you prefer a more elaborate home with a separate dining room, we can show you one priced at $55,000.)

THE ORIGINAL OWNERS THOUGHT OF EVERYTHING! You don't believe that? Ask to see MLS 2314 if you are prepared to acquire this property for a very firm $47,000—which is far below replacement cost. Why are they selling? To move next door to several of their friends in a new condominium. To top it off, it has a studio on the upper level. A RARE VALUE!

We'll be happy to assist you in listing your property on our Carmel MLS.

Studio Names New Director

Don Osborn will succeed Michael Keller as resident director of the Studio Theatre-Restaurant in Carmel early in September, says owner Bob Evans, Jr. Keller who has served in this capacity for the past three years, is now directing "Barefoot In The Park" which opens September 8. Osborn will direct "The Odd Couple" when it goes into rehearsal shortly thereafter. He will also take Keller's place as host at luncheon and dinner, starting September 1.

A native Californian, Osborn graduated from the University of the Pacific, Stockton. After securing his credential at San Francisco State, he taught English and Drama at Bay Area high schools for six years. Among the several dozen shows he directed were "The Miracle Worker," "The Crucible," "The Skin Of Our Teeth," "The Boy Friend" and "The Man Who Came To Dinner." He has also directed for the Squirrel Hill Theatre in Berkeley. During the summers of 1959-62, he acted in various Studio Theatre productions.

Evans expressed regret at Keller's decision to leave the Studio, pointing to the high standards of direction he has maintained, but voiced confidence that Osborn would prove a worthy successor.

Police Reports

The Carmel Police were active during the week answering 3 burglary, 1 theft and 1 major accident calls.

The most serious accident occurred Monday involving 2 parked, and 2 moving automobiles at the corner of Casanova and 7th streets. Two out-of-town cars were damaged as well as autos owned by Carmelites Michael Edward Collins and Rosemary deLeon Prez. No one was injured even though one of the cars was overturned. Visibility at this corner was obscured to both the drivers by a wall and large tree.

The most recent burglary was yesterday morning when thieves broke into John Grissim's display case absconding with a suede coat, boots, shirt, and belt. Other burglaries were: Oak Tree Lodge where $128 was stolen and the Holland Inn where $55 was taken.

Two Fort Ord soldiers were apprehended after they blatantly walked around town with Hansel and Gretel's sign under their arms.

An accident at Rio Road and Highway 1 Monday afternoon resulted in the injury of three vacationers. One car went out of control and settled on the porch of Dick Lawitzke; three houses from the point of impact. (see M. O. Lawitzke's story on page 8)
